THE OLD CHESTNUT

It has been very obvious of late that people are becoming negligent about leaving valuables in cars for all to see, not only is it a bad habit to get into but what we must all realise is that opportunistic thieves are around all the time looking for easy pickings. Very recently whilst parked at our local Kingscliff Shopping Centre I have observed ladies handbags, a lap top, shopping of all kinds sitting on car seats for all to see, it is like putting a notice on your car inviting people to steal. Victims of theft get very upset when items are stolen from them, and are inclined to blame everybody apart from themselves. We are not that far away from Christmas it's time to wake up to the facts that stealing from cars has not improved and the figures are likely to rise on the lead up to the festive season, the warning be very careful about what you leave in your car because you can bet on it that not everybody is a law abiding citizens.

NOTHING IS SACRED THESE DAYS

Thieves are now targeting churches. Banora Point Community Baptist Church has been broken into five times in the last sixteen months, church furniture was smashed, food and an industrial blender was stolen. The sad part about the recent break and enter, the thieves stole the money that was in a charity tin earmarked for the poor children in the Philippines. It appears that the person who gained entry by smashing glass must have injured himself as there was a trail blood. "Was he punished by a higher court"?. We have Neighbourhood Watch, Eyewatch, School Watch, are we now asking the public to watch out over their place of worship?.
